Nota di contenuto	Introduction -- Fuzzy Multiple Linear Regression -- Water Quality Index (WQI) -- Data Collection and Study Sites -- Water Quality Index Using Fuzzy Regression.
Sommario/riassunto	This book addresses the prediction of the Water Quality Index (WQI) at Perak River, State of Perak, Malaysia, using a fuzzy multiple linear regression model to tackle the uncertainty in the measurements of six key parameters – dissolved oxygen (DO), biological oxygen demand (BOD), chemical oxygen demand (COD), suspended solids (SS), pH value (pH) and ammoniacal nitrogen (NH3-NL). Given its scope, the book is suitable for graduate students, researchers and water quality scientists.

Sommario/riassunto	This book provides a comprehensive analysis of young people in Turkey who are not in education, employment, or training (NEET). Edited by Levent ahin, M. Erkam Kocakaya, and Osman Akgül, it examines the socio-economic challenges and risks faced by the NEET population, particularly those aged 15-29. The text explores the causes and effects of NEET status, highlighting issues such as unemployment, lack of education opportunities, and economic inactivity. It discusses the broader implications for social and economic development in Turkey and the importance of developing effective policies to address these challenges. The book is based on extensive field research conducted between September and December 2020, and aims to provide insights and strategies for policymakers, researchers, and educators interested in youth development and labor market policies.
