

|    |                         |                                                                                                                                                             |
|----|-------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. | Record Nr.              | UNISOBSOBE00025257                                                                                                                                          |
|    | Autore                  | Tonelli, Natascia                                                                                                                                           |
|    | Titolo                  | Rileggendo le Rime di Dante secondo l'edizione e il commento di Domenico De Robertis: il libro delle canzoni / Natascia Tonelli                             |
|    | Pubbl/distr/stampa      | Pisa ; Roma, : Istituti editoriali e poligrafici internazionali, 2006                                                                                       |
|    | Descrizione fisica      | 10-59 p. ; 23 cm                                                                                                                                            |
|    | Lingua di pubblicazione | Italiano                                                                                                                                                    |
|    | Formato                 | Materiale a stampa                                                                                                                                          |
|    | Livello bibliografico   | Monografia                                                                                                                                                  |
|    | Note generali           | Estratto da: Studi e problemi di critica testuale, 73 (ott. 2006)                                                                                           |
| 2. | Record Nr.              | UNINA9910451445803321                                                                                                                                       |
|    | Autore                  | Tighe Justin                                                                                                                                                |
|    | Titolo                  | Constructing Suiyuan [[electronic resource] ] : the politics of northwestern territory and development in early twentieth-century China / / by Justin Tighe |
|    | Pubbl/distr/stampa      | Leiden ; ; Boston, : Brill, 2005                                                                                                                            |
|    | ISBN                    | 1-280-86839-297866108683911-4294-5352-490-474-0788-11-4337-0464-1                                                                           |
|    | Descrizione fisica      | 1 online resource (316 p.)                                                                                                                                  |
|    | Collana                 | Brill's Inner Asian library, , 1566-7162 ; ; 15                                                                                                             |
|    | Disciplina              | 951/.77                                                                                                                                                     |
|    | Soggetti                | Electronic books.Suiyuan Sheng (China) Politics and governmentSuiyuan Sheng (China) HistoryChina History 20th century                           |
|    | Lingua di pubblicazione | Inglese                                                                                                                                                     |
|    | Formato                 | Materiale a stampa                                                                                                                                          |
|    | Livello bibliografico   | Monografia                                                                                                                                                  |
|    | Note generali           | Description based upon print version of record.                                                                                                             |

|                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|----------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Nota di bibliografia | Includes bibliographical references (p. 270-290) and index.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Nota di contenuto    | List of Maps and Tables; Abbreviations; A Note on Language and Referencing; Preface; Introduction Constructing Suiyuan; Chapter One Before Suiyuan: Qing Order Beyond the Pass; Chapter Two Territorial and Administrative Elaboration; Chapter Three Land Reclamation, Agriculture and Pastoralism; Chapter Four Poverty, Backwardness and Education; Chapter Five Suiyuan and the Challenge of Mongol Space; Chapter Six Suiyuan and the Rise of Beile-yin sume; Epilogue Suiyuan Effaced; Glossary of Chinese Names and Terms; Bibliography; Index |
| Sommario/riassunto   | A detailed examination of the making of a new province in China's Inner Asian borderlands in the early 20th century providing new insights into the spatial and territorial aspects of modern Chinese state and nation building.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |

|                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3. Record Nr.           | UNINA9910862097003321                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Autore                  | van Gelder Emma                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Titolo                  | Consumer Online Dispute Resolution Pathways in Europe : Analysing the Standards for Access and Procedural Justice in Online Dispute Resolution Procedures                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Pubbl/distr/stampa      | The Hague : , : Boom Uitgevers Den Haag, , 2022©2022                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ISBN                    | 94-001-1202-5                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Descrizione fisica      | 1 online resource (347 pages)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Altri autori (Persone)  | RaineyDaniel                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Lingua di pubblicazione | Inglese                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Formato                 | Materiale a stampa                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Livello bibliografico   | Monografia                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Nota di contenuto       | Intro -- Table of Contents -- Abbreviations -- 1 Introduction: cODR procedures and the search for justice -- 1.1 The difficult road to consumer access to justice -- 1.1.1 Consumer access to justice -- 1.1.2 Consumer redress pathways -- 1.1.3 Consumer online dispute resolution in Europe -- 1.1.4 cODR and access to justice -- 1.2 Research Question -- 1.3 Aims -- 1.4 Scope and delimitations -- 1.4.1 |

Access to Justice -- 1.4.1.1 Procedural Justice: A normative perspective -- 1.4.1.2 Procedural Justice: a social psychological perspective -- 1.4.2 Individual private enforcement -- 1.4.3 Consumers -- 1.5 Methodology -- 1.5.1 Research methods and sources -- 1.5.1.1 Doctrinal research -- 1.5.1.2 Empirical research -- 1.5.2 Selection of jurisdictions -- 1.6 Outline -- 2 Pathways to individual consumer redress in the EU -- 2.1 Introduction -- 2.2 Consumer redress: introductory remarks -- 2.2.1 The overlap between public and private enforcement -- 2.2.2 Private consumer redress through individual and collective action -- 2.2.3 Characteristics of consumer disputes -- 2.2.4 Information sources -- 2.3 Direct negotiation -- 2.3.1 Internal complaint handling mechanisms -- 2.3.2 Complaint assistance tools -- 2.3.3 A case-study: Klachtenkompas -- 2.3.4 Evaluation -- 2.4 Consumer alternative dispute resolution -- 2.4.1 A wide variety of consumer alternative dispute resolution models -- 2.4.1.1 Consumer ombudsmen models -- 2.4.1.2 Consumer arbitration bodies -- 2.4.1.3 Binding advice model -- 2.4.1.4 Consumer mediation services -- 2.4.2 The EU level: the ADR Directive and the ODR Regulation -- 2.4.3 The national level: the Netherlands -- 2.4.3.1 Dutch CDR bodies -- 2.4.3.2 Implementation of the ADR Directive -- 2.4.4 The national level: The United Kingdom -- 2.4.4.1 CDR bodies in the United Kingdom -- 2.4.4.2 Implementation of the ADR Directive. -- 2.4.5 Consumer online dispute resolution -- 2.4.6 Evaluation -- 2.4.6.1 Underenforcement of consumer law -- 2.4.6.2 The quality of CDR -- 2.4.6.3 The low uptake of CDR -- 2.4.6.4 The private nature of CDR -- 2.5 Court procedures for resolving consumer claims -- 2.5.1 The EU approach -- 2.5.2 The national level: the Netherlands and the United Kingdom -- 2.5.3 Evaluation -- 2.6 Conclusion -- 3 A general introduction into ODR -- 3.1 Introduction -- 3.2 The origin and development of ODR -- 3.3 ODR techniques -- 3.3.1 Credit-card chargeback mechanisms -- 3.3.2 Online negotiation -- 3.3.3 Online mediation -- 3.3.4 Online arbitration -- 3.3.5 Online ombudsmen -- 3.3.6 Online mock jury -- 3.4 Opportunities of ODR -- 3.4.1 Cost savings -- 3.4.2 Time savings -- 3.4.3 Convenience -- 3.4.4 Feedback and regulatory function -- 3.5 Challenges of ODR -- 3.5.1 Digital exclusion -- 3.5.2 Costs -- 3.5.3 Loss of non-verbal cues -- 3.5.4 Technical difficulties -- 3.5.5 Security and privacy concerns -- 3.6 Initiatives on the regulation of ODR -- 3.7 Conclusion -- 4 Consumer online dispute resolution pathways to individual consumer redress in the EU -- 4.1 Introduction -- 4.2 cODR providers -- 4.2.1 Technologies used in cODR procedures -- 4.2.2 ODR techniques used by CDR bodies -- 4.2.3 Illustrations of European cODR providers -- 4.2.4 (c)ODR bodies operating in the Netherlands -- 4.2.4.1 ODR bodies -- 4.2.4.2 Consumer ODR in the Netherlands -- 4.2.5 ODR bodies operating in the United Kingdom -- 4.2.5.1 ODR bodies -- 4.2.5.2 Consumer ODR in the United Kingdom -- 4.2.6 Conclusions regarding the cODR field in the Netherlands and the United Kingdom -- 4.2.6.1 Definition on ODR -- 4.2.6.2 Wide variety in forms of ODR procedures -- 4.2.6.3 Access to CDR -- 4.2.6.4 Bringing parties to ODR -- 4.2.6.5 Levels of implementation of technology in ODR procedures. -- 4.2.6.6 Loss of non-verbal cues and trust-building -- 4.2.6.7 Online text-based procedures -- 4.2.6.8 Digital qualifications of ODR staff -- 4.2.6.9 Legal qualifications of ODR staff -- 4.2.6.10 ODR as feedback and policy tool -- 4.2.7 Evaluation of cODR procedures -- 4.3 ODR procedures offered by online intermediary marketplaces -- 4.3.1 Relationships within online intermediary marketplaces -- 4.3.2 The ODR processes offered by online intermediary marketplaces -- 4.3.3

Examples of ODR processes offered by online intermediary marketplaces -- 4.3.4 Evaluation of the fairness of internal ODR procedures undertaken by online intermediary marketplaces -- 4.3.5 Court actions against online marketplaces -- 4.4 The EU ODR platform -- 4.4.1 The process of the EU ODR platform -- 4.4.2 Evaluation of the ODR platform and suggestions for improvement -- 4.4.2.1 Restricted scope -- 4.4.2.2 Limited functions -- 4.4.2.3 Voluntary nature -- 4.4.2.4 30-day deadline -- 4.4.2.5 Lack of standards of quality and expertise for ODR advisors -- 4.5 Conclusion -- 5 Standards of access and justice in cODR pathways -- 5.1 Introduction -- 5.2 The right to access to justice in European treaties -- 5.2.1 Procedural safeguards enshrined in Article 6(1) ECHR and 47 EU Charter -- 5.2.2 The development of access to justice from courts to ADR -- 5.2.3 The application of Articles 6(1) ECHR and 47 EU Charter to ODR -- 5.2.4 The importance of taking into account Articles 6(1) ECHR and 47 EU Charter in the design of cODR -- 5.2.5 Evaluation -- 5.3 Access to fair CDR procedures in EU legislative instruments -- 5.3.1 Quality in ODR -- 5.3.2 Standards of quality in sectoral EU legislative instruments -- 5.3.3 Standards of quality of the ADR Directive and ODR Regulation -- 5.3.3.1 Accessibility -- 5.3.3.2 Independence, impartiality, and expertise -- 5.3.3.3 Transparency -- 5.3.3.4 Effectiveness. -- 5.3.3.5 Fairness -- 5.3.3.6 Liberty -- 5.3.3.7 Legality -- 5.3.3.8 Summary -- 5.3.4 Quality of ODR at the national level -- 5.3.5 Evaluation -- 5.3.5.1 Accessibility -- 5.3.5.2 Independence, impartiality, and expertise -- 5.3.5.3 Transparency -- 5.3.5.4 Effectiveness -- 5.3.5.5 Fairness -- 5.3.5.6 Liberty -- 5.3.5.7 Legality -- 5.3.5.8 Summary -- 5.4 Access to a fair ODR procedure offered by online intermediary marketplaces -- 5.4.1 Quality in ODR processes offered by online intermediary marketplaces -- 5.4.2 The notion of online marketplaces -- 5.4.3 EU Regulatory framework for online intermediary marketplaces. -- 5.4.3.1 The P2B Regulation -- 5.4.3.2 The Digital Services Act -- 5.4.3.3 The GDPR -- 5.4.4 Evaluation -- 5.4.4.1 The P2B Regulation -- 5.4.4.2 The DSA -- 5.4.4.3 The GDPR -- 5.4.4.4 Summary -- 5.5 Conclusion -- 6 Consumer ODR as a pathway to individual consumer redress in the EU -- 6.1 Introduction -- 6.2 Access to fair cODR procedures offered by CDR bodies -- 6.2.1 Introduction -- 6.2.2 Access -- 6.2.3 Expertise, independence, and impartiality -- 6.2.4 Transparency -- 6.2.5 Effectiveness -- 6.2.6 Fairness -- 6.2.7 Liberty -- 6.2.8 Legality -- 6.3 Access to fair cODR mechanisms offered by online intermediary marketplaces -- 6.3.1 Introduction -- 6.3.2 Accessibility -- 6.3.3 Independence, impartiality, and expertise -- 6.3.4 Transparency -- 6.3.5 Effectiveness -- 6.3.6 Fairness -- 6.3.7 Liberty -- 6.3.8 Legality -- 6.4 The EU ODR platform -- 6.4.1 Enhanced information -- 6.4.2 Redirection -- 6.4.3 The integration of an online assisted-negotiation tool -- 6.4.4 An ODR function -- 6.4.5 A regulatory and feedback function -- 6.5 A monitoring framework -- 6.5.1 Monitoring framework for CDR bodies offering ODR procedures -- 6.5.2 Monitoring framework of ODR offered by online intermediary marketplaces -- 6.5.3 The EU ODR platform. -- 6.5.4 A role for the civil court in the overall monitoring framework of cODR -- 6.6 The integration of enforcement mechanisms -- 6.7 Conclusion -- Bibliography -- Table of cases -- Annex I Respondents -- Annex II Survey.

---