Sommario/riassunto

This is the first book, within the interdisciplinary field of Nonverbal Communication Studies, dealing with the specific tasks and problems involved in the translation of literary works as well as film and television texts, and in the live experience of simultaneous and consecutive interpretation. The theoretical and methodological ideas and models it contains should merit the interest not only of students of literature, professional translators and translatoologists, interpreters, and those engaged in film and television dubbing, but also to literary readers, film and theatergoers, linguists and psycholinguists, semioticians, communicologists, and crosscultural anthropologists. Its sixteen contributions by translation scholars and professional interpreters from fifteen countries, deal with discourse in translation, intercultural problems, narrative literature, theater, poetry, interpretation, and film and television dubbing.

This book, part of the series by the Verein für Socialpolitik, explores the agricultural and rural conditions in various regions of Germany, particularly during the late 19th century. It includes detailed reports on the socio-economic status of farmers, the distribution of land ownership, and the challenges faced by rural communities. The text aims to provide a comprehensive analysis of the factors affecting rural economies, such as debt, land fragmentation, and agricultural practices. The intended audience includes social scientists, historians, and policymakers interested in agricultural reforms and rural development. The book serves as a historical document reflecting the socio-political landscape of rural Germany at the time.
