| Sommario/riassunto      | This scholarly work is a collection of essays resulting from the international colloquium 'Marcel Proust en Turquie' held in Istanbul in October 2022. The book explores the influence of Marcel Proust's literary masterpiece 'À la recherche du temps perdu' (In Search of Lost Time) on Turkish literature, psychology, and broader intellectual thought. Contributions analyze themes such as memory, time, and human relationships, as well as the transition from 'he' to 'I' in Proust's narrative style. The essays also delve into Proust's psychological insights and his meticulous writing techniques, which include the use of 'paperoles' in manuscript preparation. This book serves as a deep examination of Proust's enduring impact on global literature and the dialogue between French and Turkish cultures, appealing to scholars in literature, psychology, and interdisciplinary studies. |
