

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910954107803321
Autore	Hill Collins Patricia
Titolo	Another kind of public education : race, schools, the media, and democratic possibilities // Patricia Hill Collins
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Boston, : Beacon Press, c2009
ISBN	0-8070-9576-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (252 p.)
Collana	A Simmons College/Beacon Press race, education, and democracy series book
Disciplina	371.82900973
Soggetti	Racism in education - United States Public schools - United States Education in mass media - United States Democracy and education - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	"Based on lectures delivered at Simmons College in 2006"--T.p. verso.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Nota di contenuto	Intro -- Another Kind of Public Education -- Contents -- Preface -- Chapter 1: What Does the Flag Mean to You? -- Chapter 2: Social Blackness, Honorary Whiteness, -- Chapter 3: Would You Know It If You Saw It? -- Chapter 4: Somebody's Watching You -- Afterword -- A Note from the Series Editor -- Acknowledgments -- Notes -- References.
Sommario/riassunto	One of America's most distinguished scholars of race shows us how public education needs to be seen in the light of the influence of "color-blind racism as a system of power." Drawing examples from schools, media, and the workplace, Collins gives us a book of social analysis that is also an energizing handbook for change. From the Trade Paperback edition.