Sommario/riassunto	Born in 1930 in "Diddlin' Dora's" establishment on the banks of Rapid

Creek and carried by the Madam herself to a social worker at the Alex Johnson Hotel in Rapid City, Ron Hull was destined from the outset to live an interesting life. And interesting it has indeed been, at the very least. A well-known and much-loved figure after six decades in television, Hull sets out in Backstage to tell his story-from playing a bellhop in a junior class play in South Dakota (and meeting his "real" mother backstage) to initiating the American Experience series for the Corporation for Public

Sommario/riassunto	The jews of rural franconia in the first half of the 19th century are a kind of their own in the history of the Haskala, the jewish emancipation movement. Their encounter with modernity challenged them in multiple ways, be it social, political or, maybe most of all, religious. When exploring the diverse and rich world of the franconian jews, one has to admit that the clichée of the antimodern, backwors-minded rural jew is indeeed just a clichée. The rural world was very well aware of the questions modernity posed, but found genuine answers and is thus a world as interesting and vibrant as their cousins in the cities of Germany and the States of eastern Europe.
