

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910955399103321
Titolo	Understanding and promoting access for people with learning difficulties : seeing the opportunities and challenges of risk / / edited by Jane Seale and Melanie Nind
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Abingdon, Oxon ; ; New York, NY, : Routledge, 2009
ISBN	1-135-21065-9 1-282-23415-3 9786612234156 0-203-09212-0
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (209 p.)
Altri autori (Persone)	SealeJane NindMelanie
Disciplina	371.9
Soggetti	Learning disabled - Education Inclusive education Learning disabled - Services for Social integration
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di contenuto	Book Cover; Title; Copyright; Contents; List of Tables; List of Figures; Acknowledgements; Notes on contributors; Foreword; Preface; Part 1 Introduction; Chapter 1 Access for people with learning difficulties: New rhetoric or meaningful concept?; Part 2 Access to and through information; Chapter 2 Access in mind: A review of approaches to accessible information for people with learning disabilities; Chapter 3 Creativity, choice and control: The use of multimedia life story work as a tool to facilitate access; Part 3 Access all areas Chapter 4 Access all areas: The use of symbols in public spacesChapter 5 Access all areas: We are VIPs; Chapter 6 It's my heritage too: Developing participatory methods for promoting access to heritage sites; Part 4 Rights and responsibilities; Chapter 7 Promoting access to community and participation: What role can citizenship education play?; Chapter 8 Talking together about access: 'When I am here I don't feel like I've got any problems'; Chapter 9 Promoting social inclusion through building bridges and bonds; Part 5 Multilayered access Chapter 10 If we have got it wrong for people with learning disabilities, have we got it wrong for other people as well?Chapter 11 I'm in control;

 Part 6 Conclusion; Chapter 12 Access and the concept of risk:
 Preventing bad things from happening or making good things happen?;
 Index

Sommario/riassunto The issue of access is at the forefront of the practical challenges facing people with learning difficulties and people working with or supporting them. This engaging text brings together evidence, narratives and discussions that question and advance our understanding of the concept of access for people with learning difficulties. Seale and Nind draw on their expertise to analyse a wide range of situations, including access to public spaces, citizenship education, community participation, and employment. Through a series of related chapters, key researchers in the field of inc

2. Record Nr. UNINA9910961704703321
Autore Rosecrance Richard N
Titolo The resurgence of the West : how a transatlantic union can prevent war and restore the United States and Europe / / Richard Rosecrance
Pubbl/distr/stampa New Haven, : Yale University Press, 2013
ISBN 9780300190649
 0300190646
Edizione [1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica 1 online resource (213 p.)
Disciplina 337.7304
Soggetti Economics
 United States Foreign economic relations European Union countries
 European Union countries Foreign economic relations United States
Lingua di pubblicazione Inglese
Formato Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico Monografia
Note generali Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto Front matter -- Contents -- Introduction -- 1. The Size of States -- 2. The Rise of the East -- 3. The Decline and Resurgence of the West -- 4. The Unification of the United States and the Integration of the West --

5. The Trauma of Power Transition -- 6. Market Clusters Augment Size
-- 7. The Problem of China -- 8. Alternatives -- 9. How the West
Attracts China and the World -- Notes -- Acknowledgments -- Index

Sommario/riassunto

After two centuries of ascent, the United States finds itself in economic decline. Some advise America to cure its woes alone. But the road to isolation leads inevitably to the end of U.S. leadership in the international system, warns Richard Rosecrance in this bold and novel book. Instead, Rosecrance calls for the United States to join forces with the European Union and create a transatlantic economic union. Such a U.S.-Europe community would unblock arteries of trade and investment, rejuvenate the West, and enable Western countries to deal with East Asian challenges from a position of unity and economic strength. Exploring the possibilities for such a merger, the author writes, "The European Union offers a means of creating larger units without recourse to force. A connection between Europe and North America could eventually grow into an agglomeration of states, drawing China and the East into a new network of countries. In this way East will eventually join the West." Through this great merger the author offers a positive vision of the future in which members of a tightly knit Western alliance regain economic health and attract Eastern nations to join a new and worldwide international order.
