Sommario/riassunto

This book examines the innovation, investment and sustainability of developing economies across the globe. Topics discussed herein include black money and corruption in India; the growth of information technology (IT) and knowledge-intensive services (KIS) in developing countries; the IFAC compliance program in a less developed economy; Hong Kong's economic integration with China via FDI; rural and urban wage subsidies as policies for reducing urban unemployment, decreasing pollution and improving welfare in a dual developing economy; and the relationship between political freedoms and foreign direct investment.
