

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910959384703321
Autore	Greenawalt Kent <1936-2023.>
Titolo	Religious convictions and political choice / / Kent Greenawalt
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, : Oxford University Press, 1988
ISBN	1-280-43993-9 0-19-536426-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (279 pages)
Disciplina	320/.01/9
Soggetti	Religion and politics - United States Religion and state - United States United States Religion
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographies and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; I. Liberal Democracy and Publicly Accessible Reasons; 1. The Aim and Scope of the Inquiry; 2. Premises of Liberal Democracy and the Place of Religion; 3. The Relevance of Religious Convictions for Political Choice; 4. Publicly Accessible Grounds of Decision and Religious Convictions; II. Political Choices and Religious Convictions; 5. Inappropriate Grounds of Restriction: Consenting Sexual Acts as Sins; 6. Borderlines of Status I: Animal Rights and Environmental Policy; 7. Borderlines of Status II: Abortion 8. Borderlines of Status III: Religious Convictions and the Limits of Publicly Accessible Reasons 9. Moral Standards, Evaluative Comparisons, and Facts: Welfare Assistance and Other Issues; 10. Church-State Problems; 11. Religious Bases That Conflict with Common Forms of Reasoning; III. Dialogue, Official Action, and Constitutionality; 12. Appropriate Political Discourse in a Liberal Society; 13. Religious Convictions and Official Action; 14. The Boundaries of Constitutionality; Index
Sommario/riassunto	This examination of an important contemporary issue begins with the basic precepts of liberal democracy, and compares rational, secular grounds for decision-making with grounds based on religious conviction.

