

|                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|-------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. Record Nr.           | UNINA9910962305803321                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Autore                  | Potter Michael D                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Titolo                  | Reason's nearest kin : philosophies of arithmetic from Kant to Carnap // Michael Potter                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Pubbl/distr/stampa      | Oxford ; ; New York, : Oxford University Press, 2000                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ISBN                    | 97801915202280191520225                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Edizione                | [1st ed.]                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Descrizione fisica      | x, 305 p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Disciplina              | 513/.01                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Soggetti                | Arithmetic - PhilosophyMathematics - Philosophy                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| Lingua di pubblicazione | Inglese                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| Formato                 | Materiale a stampa                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Livello bibliografico   | Monografia                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Nota di bibliografia    | Includes bibliographical references (p. [290]-298) and index.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Nota di contenuto       | Intro -- Contents -- Introduction -- 0.1 Arithmetic -- 0.2 The a priori-- 0.3 Empiricism -- 0.4 Psychologism -- 0.5 Pure formalism -- 0.6Trivial formalism -- 0.7 Reflexive formalism -- 0.8 Arithmetic andreason -- 1 Kant -- 1.1 Intuitions and concepts -- 1.2 Geometricalpropositions -- 1.3 Arithmetical propositions -- 1.4 TheTranscendental Deduction -- 1.5 Analytic and synthetic -- 1.6 Theprinciple of analytic judgements -- 1.7 Geometry is not analytic -- 1.8Arithmetic is not analytic -- 1.9 The principle of synthetic judgements-- 1.10 Geometry as synthetic -- 1.11 Arithmetic as synthetic -- 1.12Arithmetic and sensibility -- 2 Grundlagen -- 2.1 Axiomatization --2.2 Arithmetic independent of sensibility -- 2.3 The Begriffsschrift --2.4 Frege's conception of analyticity -- 2.5 Numerically definitequantifiers -- 2.6 The numerical equivalence -- 2.7 Frege's explicitdefinition -- 2.8 The context principle again -- 2.9 The analyticity ofthe numerical equivalence -- 3 Dedekind -- 3.1 Dedekind's recursiontheorem -- 3.2 Frege and Dedekind -- 3.3 Axiomatic structuralism --3.4 Existence -- 3.5 Uniqueness -- 3.6 Implicationism -- 3.7 Systems-- 3.8 Dedekind on existence -- 3.9 Dedekind on uniqueness -- 4Frege's account of classes -- 4.1 The Julius Caesar problem yet again-- 4.2 The context principle in Grundgesetze -- 4.3 Russell's paradox-- 4.4 Numbers as concepts -- 4.5 The status of the numericalequivalence -- 5 Russell's account of classes -- 5.1 Propositions -- 5.2 |

The old theory of denoting -- 5.3 The new theory of denoting -- 5.4
 The substitutional theory -- 5.5 Russell's propositional paradox -- 5.6 Frege's hierarchy of senses -- 5.7 Mathematical logic as based on the theory of types -- 5.8 Elementary propositions -- 5.9 The hierarchy of propositional functions in * 12.
 5.10 The hierarchy of propositional functions in the Introduction --
 5.11 Typical ambiguity -- 5.12 Cumulative types -- 5.13 The hierarchy of classes -- 5.14 Numbers -- 5.15 The axiom of reducibility -- 5.16
 Propositional functions and reducibility -- 5.17 The regressive method
 -- 5.18 The Introduction to Mathematical Philosophy -- 6 The Tractatus
 -- 6.1 Sign and symbol -- 6.2 The hierarchy of types -- 6.3 The doctrine of inexpressibility -- 6.4 Operations and functions -- 6.5 Sense -- 6.6 The rejection of class-theoretic foundations for mathematics -- 6.7 Number as the exponent of an operation -- 6.8
 The adjectival strategy -- 6.9 Equations -- 6.10 Numerical identities -- 6.11 Generalization -- 6.12 The axiom of infinity -- 6.13 A transcendental argument -- 6.14 Another transcendental argument -- 7 The second edition of Principia -- 7.1 Logical atomism and empiricism -- 7.2 The hierarchy of propositional functions -- 7.3
 Mathematical induction -- 7.4 The definition of identity -- 8 Ramsey
 -- 8.1 Propositions -- 8.2 Predicating functions -- 8.3 Extending Wittgenstein's account of identity -- 8.4 Propositional functions in extension -- 8.5 Wittgenstein's objections -- 8.6 The axiom of infinity
 -- 9 Hilbert's programme -- 9.1 Formal consistency -- 9.2 Real arithmetic -- 9.3 Schematic arithmetic -- 9.4 Ideal arithmetic -- 9.5
 Metamathematics -- 9.6 Hilbert's programme -- 10 Gödel -- 10.1
 Incompleteness -- 10.2 Formal theories -- 10.3 The unprovability of outer consistency -- 10.4 The demise of Hilbert's programme -- 10.5
 The unprovability of consistency -- 10.6 Axiomatic formalism -- 11
 Carnap -- 11.1 Language and symbolism -- 11.2 The rejection of the Tractatus -- 11.3 Conventionalism -- 11.4 Completeness -- 11.5
 Consistency -- 11.6 Semantics -- 11.7 Pragmatics -- Conclusion --
 Bibliography -- Index -- A -- B -- C -- D -- E -- F -- G -- H -- I -- J
 -- K.
 L -- M -- N -- O -- P -- Q -- R -- S -- T -- U -- V -- W -- Z.

---

Sommario/riassunto

Reason's Nearest Kin is a critical examination of the most exciting period there has been in the philosophical study of the properties of the natural numbers, from the 1880s to the 1930s. Reassessing the brilliant innovations of Frege, Russell, Wittgenstein, and others, which transformed philosophy as well as our understanding of mathematics, Michael Potter places arithmetic at the interface between experience, language, thought, and the world.

---