

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910962395603321
Titolo	Is the death penalty dying? // edited by Austin Sarat
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Boston ; ; Amsterdam, : Elsevier, c2008
ISBN	9786611145101 9781281145109 1281145106 9781849505604 1849505608 9780080557281 0080557287
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (229 p.)
Collana	Studies in law, politics, and society ; ; v. 42, special issue
Altri autori (Persone)	SaratAustin
Disciplina	345.0773
Soggetti	Capital punishment Criminal law & procedure Penology & punishment Law - Criminal Law - General Political Science - General
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Nota di contenuto	Evolutionary history: the changing purposes for capital punishment / Beau Breslin, John J.P. Howley and Molly Appel -- The heart has its reasons: examining the strange persistence of the American death penalty / Susan A. Bandes -- Rule of law abolitionism / Benjamin S. Yost -- Not wiser after 35 years of contemplating the death penalty / Leigh B. Bienen -- Facts and furies: the antinomies of facts, law, and retribution in the work of capital prosecutors / Paul J. Kaplan -- The judicial use of international and foreign law in death penalty cases: a poisoned chalice? / Bharat Malkani -- Death, unraveled / Jesse Cheng.
Sommario/riassunto	This volume of "Studies in Law, Politics, and Society" presents a unique special issue "Is the Death Penalty Dying?." Drawing together an array of distinguished scholars from political science, criminology, sociology, and law, this volume provides a comprehensive assessment of the status of the death penalty in the United States, its past, and its trajectory for the future. Taken together, the work published in this volume exemplifies the kind exciting and innovative work now being done by legal scholars from different disciplines. This is a special issue examining the death penalty in the US. It draws together an array of distinguished scholars from political science, criminology, sociology, and law.

---