

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910964849903321
Autore	Bagchi Ann D (Ann Dalton)
Titolo	Making connections : a study of networking among immigrant professionals / / Ann D. Bagchi
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, : LFB Scholarly, 2001
ISBN	1-931202-94-X
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (176 p.)
Collana	The new Americans
Disciplina	305.53/08691
Soggetti	Foreign workers - United States Professional employees - Social networks - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 157-164) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction: Social networks and immigrant professionals -- The conceptualization of migrant networks -- Legislative and demographic impacts on network usage -- The network ties of Indian and Filipino immigrant professionals -- Pilot study of immigrant professionals in New York -- Findings from the study of immigrant professional networking.
Sommario/riassunto	Utilizing quantitative and qualitative research methods Bagchi examines the role that networks play in the immigration of professionals to the United States. Past research of so-called "migrant networks" emphasized the role of close interpersonal ties and focused on lower-skilled immigrants. This research shows that casual ties play a significant role in bringing highly-skilled immigrants to the U.S., but also that the importance of the "strength of ties" varies considerably by gender and occupation. Bagchi used two quantitative data sources: the Immigration and Naturalization Services? Public Use files and the Microdata files of the United States? Census Bureau as well as her own qualitative interviews. The book makes an important contribution to the understanding of the immigration experience through its study of heretofore neglected segments of the immigrant population and through its use of a combination of research techniques.