

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910964969603321
Autore	Flanagan Constance A
Titolo	Teenage citizens : the political theories of the young / / Constance A. Flanagan
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Cambridge, Mass., : Harvard University Press, 2013
ISBN	9780674070721 0674070720 9780674067233 0674067231
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (310 pages) : illustrations (black and white)
Disciplina	303.48/4
Soggetti	Teenagers - Political activity Youth - Political activity Citizenship Political sociology
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Adolescents' theories of the social contract -- Teens from different social orders -- We, the people -- Democracy -- Laws and public health -- Inequality -- Trust -- Community service.
Sommario/riassunto	Too young to vote or pay taxes, teenagers are off the radar of most political scientists. Teenage Citizens looks beyond the electoral game to consider the question of how this overlooked segment of our citizenry understands political topics. Bridging psychology and political science, Constance Flanagan argues that civic identities form during adolescence and are rooted in teens' everyday lives-in their experiences as members of schools and community-based organizations and in their exercise of voice, collective action, and responsibility in those settings. This is the phase of life when political ideas are born. Through voices from a wide range of social classes and ethnic backgrounds in the United States and five other countries, we learn how teenagers form ideas about democracy, inequality, laws, ethnic identity, the social contract, and the ties that bind members of a polity together. Flanagan's twenty-five years of research show how teens' personal and family values accord with their political views. When their families emphasize social responsibility-for people in need and for the common good-and perform service to the community, teens' ideas about democracy and the social contract highlight principles of tolerance, social inclusion, and equality. When families discount social responsibility relative to other values, teens' ideas about democracy focus on their rights as individuals. At a time when opportunities for youth are shrinking, Constance Flanagan helps us understand how young people come to envisage the world of politics and civic engagement, and how their own political identities take form.

2. Record Nr.	UNISA996678381503316
Titolo	Vol. 7: Debussy, Stravinskij, Gershwin
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Milano, : Fabbri, 1985
Descrizione fisica	200 p. : ill. ; 31 cm
Disciplina	780.92
Soggetti	Debussy, Claude Stravinskij, Igor Fedorovi Gershwin, George
Collocazione	XVI.7.F. 114 7
Lingua di pubblicazione	Italiano
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia