

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910966790903321
Autore	Tetreault Chantal
Titolo	Transcultural teens : performing youth identities in French cites / / Chantal Tetreault
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Hoboken, : Wiley, 2015
ISBN	9781118388716 1118388712 9781118388686 1118388682
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (468 p.)
Collana	New Directions in Ethnography
Disciplina	305.23508992761
Soggetti	Ethnicity -- France North Africans -- France North Africans - Cultural assimilation - France Ethnicity - Social aspects - France Urban youth - France Children of immigrants - France Immigrants - France Inner cities - France Transnationalism
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di contenuto	Cover; Series page; Title page; Copyright page; Acknowledgments; Introduction: Performing Transcultural Youth Identities; Chapter 1: Ethnography in les Cites; Stigmatizing Labels: ZEP, HLM, and Cite; After-Party-Spatialized Conflicts within the Cite; Theorizing Style and Stigma through Transculturality; Historical Contexts: Colonial to Post- colonial; Ethnographic Contexts: Marsh to Cite; My Own Transcultural Journey; Chapter 2: Speech in the Cite: Style and Stigma; Embodied Stylistic Practices: Global Meets Local; Language Styles in Establishing Insider and Outsider Categories Uses of Arabic Loan Words as Emblematic Identity WorkChapter 3: "Sans Probleme" or "Cent Problemes"? Revoicing Stereotypes about les

Arabes; "Arabs Got Nothing": Recycling Stereotypes for Interactional Goals; "A Scene of Racism"; Le Bled: Racializing Spaces and Spatializing "Race" through Pan-Southern Immigrant Heritage; Cultural Puns and Racializing Play; Chapter 4: La Racaille and Le Respect; Linguistic and Social Meanings of La Racaille; La Racaille within the Parallel Economies of Les Cites; Le Respect, Cultural Change, and Gender Adolescent Girls' Discursive and Moral Positioning toward La Racaille Chapter 5: "You Call That a Girl?": Gender Crossing and Border work; Le Respect, Gender, and Space; Gender and Generation in Gatherings at Local Associations; "My Name Is Cecile": (Re)Voicing Gender Identities; Chapter 6: Parental Name-Calling; "My Name Is Fatma"; Ethnographic Contexts for Parental Name-Calling; Le Respect and Le Foulard ("Headscarf"); Giving Voice to Parents, Symbolically Pointing at Peers; "My Name Is Yassina Bendjedid"; Knowledge about Parents as Symbolic Capital among Teenaged Peers; "Omar Number Two" Chapter 7: Crossing Registers: Voicing the French TV Host Afficher ("to Display"): Interactional Contexts for the TV Host Register; Linguistic Features of the TV Host Register: Game Show and Interview Formats; Performance of the TV Host Register in Game Show Format; Performance of the TV Host Register in Interview Show Format; Conclusion; Head of a "Pen," Hurts It's So Ugly; References; Index; End User License Agreement

Sommario/riassunto

The housing projects that ring modern Paris are a highly fluid linguistic and cultural melting pot, where youth culture combines North African, French, and American elements in a constantly evolving melange. Transcultural Teens provides readers with a window onto the cultural and linguistic creativity of the cites. It shows how young people of Algerian Arab origins play with language and culture in fascinating and revealing ways, and in so doing afford us keen insights into youth culture and globalization. The author's observations demonstrate that, far from evincing the 'clash of civilization
