

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910967213103321
Titolo	Participants in the international legal system : multiple perspectives on non-state actors in international law // edited by Jean d'Aspremont
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Milton Park, Abingdon, Oxon ; ; New York, NY, : Routledge, 2011
ISBN	1-136-72492-3 1-136-72493-1 1-283-24164-1 9786613241641 0-203-81683-8
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (497 p.)
Collana	Routledge Research in International Law
Altri autori (Persone)	AspremontJean d'
Disciplina	341.2
Soggetti	Non-state actors (International relations) International relations
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	"Simultaneously published in the USA and Canada."
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Participants in the International Legal System: Multiple perspectives on non-state actors in international law; Copyright; Contents; Cases and statutes; Notes on contributors; Foreword: Veritas vos liberabit; Acknowledgments; Presentation; Introduction: non-state actors in international law: oscillating between concepts and dynamics; PART I Theoretical perspectives; 1 Non-state actors from the perspective of legal positivism: the the secondary rules of international law; 2 Non-state actors from an international constitutionalist perspective: participation matters! 3 Non-state actors from the perspective of the Pure Theory of Law4 Non-state actors from the perspective of the policy- oriented school: power, law, actors and the view from New Haven; 5 Towards an interdisciplinary approach to non- state participation in the formation of global law and order; PART II The regional perspectives; 6 Non- state actors in French legal scholarship: international legal personality in question; 7 Non-state actors in North American legal scholarship: four lessons for the progressive and critical international lawyer 8 Non-state actors in Southeast Asia: how does civil society contribute towards norm- building in a state- centric environment?9

Contemporary Russian perspectives on non- state actors: fear of the loss of state sovereignty; PART III Institutional perspectives; 10 Non- state actors from the perspective of the International Court of Justice; 11 Non-state actors from the perspective of the International Law Commission; 12 Non-state actors from the perspective of the Institut de Droit international; 13 Non-state actors from the perspective of international criminal tribunals
14 Non-state actors from the perspective of the International Committee of the Red Cross15 The International Law Association and non- state actors: professional network, public interest group or epistemic community?; 16 NGOs' perspectives on non-state actors; PART IV Subject- matter based perspectives; 17 Non-state actors and human rights: corporate responsibility and the attempts to formalize the role of corporations as participants in the international legal system; 18 Non-state actors in international humanitarian law; 19 Non- state actors in international criminal law
20 Non-state actors in international institutional law: non-state, inter- state or supra-state? The peculiar identity of the intergovernmental organization21 Non-state actors in international peace and security: non- state actors and the use of force; 22 Non- state actors in international dispute settlement: pragmatism in international law; 23 Non-state actors in international investment law: the legal personality of corporations and NGOs in the context of investor-state arbitration; 24 Non-state actors in international environmental law: a Rousseauist perspective
25 Non-state actors in refugee law: l'etat, c'est moi. Refugee law as a response to non- state action

Sommario/riassunto

The international legal system has weathered sweeping changes over the last decade as new participants have emerged. International law- making and law-enforcement processes have become increasingly multi-layered with unprecedented numbers of non-State actors, including individuals, insurgents, multinational corporations and even terrorist groups, being involved. This growth in the importance of non- State actors at the law-making and law-enforcement levels has generated a lot of new scholarly studies on the topic. However, while it remains uncontested that non-State actors are now playing an
