Sommario/riassunto

This handbook-style edited volume discusses historical, but predominantly current political, economic, and societal trends in Central Asia comprising Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan. The five countries exhibit many cultural and historical commonalities and face similar internal and external challenges. Despite different transformation paths and frequent intra-regional tensions, a common regional identity has emerged in the countries since gaining their independence in 1991. Besides covering their political systems, a variety of topics such as human rights, media, terrorism, and civil society are addressed. As well, bilateral relations with seven external actors are examined. Lastly, the authors explore the opportunities and limitations of institutionalized regional cooperation in various fields of action.

Sommario/riassunto	Der Katholizismus des 19. Jahrhunderts konnte mit seinen gesellschaftlichen Herausforderungen und internen Machtkämpfen ein fruchtbarer Nährboden für wirtschaftsliberale Ideen werden. Zu dieser Erkenntnis kommt Alina Potempa, die aufzeigt, wie Katholiken in spätaufklärerischen und ultramontanen Kontexten Adam Smith und die Wissenschaft der Nationalökonomie rezipierten. Hierzu analysiert sie das wirtschaftspolitische Engagement des katholischen Aufklärers Ignaz H. von Wessenberg (1774–1860) im Großherzogtum Baden sowie die ultramontan-katholische Politische Ökonomie, die der Jurist und Ökonom Charles Périn (1815–1905), Stichwortgeber für die Debatten um einen katholischen »Modernismus«, an der Katholischen Universität Leuven (Belgien) unter richtete. In ihrer Befürwortung von Freihandel oder Gewerbefreiheit vermischte sich, so zeigt die Autorin auf, eine ökonomische mit einer religiösen sowie kirchenpolitischen Positionierung hinsichtlich der drängenden Frage, wie die gesellschaftliche Relevanz des Katholizismus in einer säkularen Moderne unter Beweis gestellt werden konnte.
