| Sommario/riassunto | The aim of regulation is to protect consumers, while ensuring that the company remains viable and has an incentive to operate efficiently. In many developing countries private companies are replacing government agencies as owners and operators of infrastructure services. Governments must now develop new skills in economic regulation of these private providers to protect consumer interests, while also ensuring that the companies remain economically and financially sound and have incentives to operate efficiently. This manual provides new economic regulators with practical guidance on how to proceed in this fairly technical new field. Chapters cover: - |

| Sommario/riassunto | La Rafaela by Alessandro Piccolomini is a critical edition that revisits a Renaissance dialogue on the education and status of women. Edited by Eva Moreno-Lago, the work is a significant contribution to the debate on gender equality that gained prominence in the 15th and 16th centuries across Europe. The dialogue explores themes of love, virtue, beauty, and wisdom through conversations between two women of differing character and experience. It highlights the importance of education in cultivating women's virtues and knowledge, challenging the social and gender norms of the time. The work is considered a vital piece in understanding the societal shifts towards recognizing women's dignity and roles during the Renaissance, serving as a historical foundation for contemporary gender studies. |
