

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910968177203321
Autore	Lumbers Michael
Titolo	Piercing the bamboo curtain : tentative bridge-building to China during the Johnson years / / Michael Lumbers
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Manchester, U.K. ; ; New York, : Manchester University Press, c2008
ISBN	9781847797209 1847797202 9781781700808 178170080X 9781847791498 1847791492
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (297 p.)
Disciplina	327.7305109046
Soggetti	HISTORY / Asia / China United States Foreign relations China China Foreign relations United States United States Foreign relations 1961-1963 United States Foreign relations 1963-1969 China Foreign relations 1949-1976 United States Politics and government 1961-1963 United States Politics and government 1963-1969
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 260-273) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Staying firm : John F. Kennedy's China policy, 1961-63 -- Holes in the dam : French recognition and the Chinese nuclear test, 1963-64 -- In Vietnam's shadow : the reaffirmation of US China policy, 1964-65 -- The irony of Vietnam : the emergence of a two-pronged China policy, 1965-66 - Bridge-building in limbo : the impact of the Cultural Revolution, 1966-67 -- Testing the waters : an aborted policy review and closing moves, 1968-69.
Sommario/riassunto	This is the first comprehensive study of U.S. policy toward China during the presidency of Lyndon Johnson, a critical phase of the Cold War immediately preceding the dramatic Sino-American rapprochement of the early 1970's. Based on a wide array of recently declassified government documents, this study challenges the popular view that Johnson's approach to China was marked by stagnation and sterility, exploring the administration's relationship to both the Vietnam War and the Cultural Revolution. By documenting Johnson's contributions to the decision-making process Lumbers offers a new perspective...
