

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910971542803321
Autore	Aks Judith H
Titolo	Women's rights in Native North America : legal mobilization in the US and Canada / / Judith H. Aks
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, : LFB Scholarly Pub., 2004
ISBN	1-59332-113-9
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (xiii, 241 pages)
Collana	Law and society
Disciplina	342.708/78/08997
Soggetti	Indian women - Legal status, laws, etc - United States Women's rights - United States Indian women - Legal status, laws, etc - Canada Women's rights - Canada
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 223-237) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Indigenous women's legal mobilization -- "Marrying out" in the US -- "Marrying out" in Canada : part I -- "Marrying out" in Canada : part II -- Comparing the US and Canadian cases -- Legal mobilization at the intersections of power.
Sommario/riassunto	Aks's analysis of marrying out cases--when indigenous women marry outside of their tribe--in the United States and Canada examines how indigenous women mobilize the law. By marrying out of their tribes/bands, these women either lose their Indian status or are unable to pass such status on to their children, and they have few legal tools that encompass their unique identities. The book concludes that the impact of indigenous women's legal mobilization should be assessed in terms of the potential for future democratic participation. Legal mobilization helps tame the effects of intersectional power only if it provides indigenous women new opportunities to redefine rights.