

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910972082003321
Autore	Smith Jason E.
Titolo	Smart Machines and Service Work: Automation in an Age of Stagnation
Pubbl/distr/stampa	[Place of publication not identified], : Reaktion Books, , 2020
ISBN	9781789143171 1789143179
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (160 pages)
Collana	Field notes
Disciplina	301.24
Soggetti	Automation Computational intelligence Economics Historical materialism User interfaces (Computer systems) Computation User Interfaces Discursive works Essays Critical Writing Essay
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Archived and cataloged by Library Stack
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Sommario/riassunto	"In recent decades digital devices have reshaped daily life, while tech companies' stock prices have thrust them to the forefront of the business world. In this rapid, global development, the promise of a new machine age has been accompanied by worries about accelerated joblessness thanks to new forms of automation. Jason E. Smith looks behind the techno-hype to lay out the realities of a period of economic slowdown and expanding debt: low growth rates and an increase of labour-intensive jobs at the bottom of the service sector. He shows how increasing inequality and poor working conditions have led to new forms of workers' struggles. Ours is less an age of automation, Smith contends, than one in which stagnation is intertwined with class conflict."--
