

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910973003103321
Autore	Abbott Carl
Titolo	How cities won the West : four centuries of urban change in western North America // Carl Abbott
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Albuquerque [N.M.] , : University of New Mexico Press, 2008
ISBN	9781283635295 1283635291 9780826333148 0826333141
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	x, 347 p. : ill., maps
Collana	Histories of the American frontier
Disciplina	307.760978
Soggetti	Cities and towns - West (U.S.) - History Cities and towns - West (U.S.) - Growth Cities and towns - Canada, Western - History Cities and towns - Canada, Western - Growth Metropolitan areas - West (U.S.) - Growth Metropolitan areas - Canada, Western - History West (U.S.) Economic conditions West (U.S.) Social life and customs
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 291-334) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction: All roads lead to Fresno -- Outposts of empires -- Building a West of cities, 1840-1940 -- Across the wide Mississippi -- The first Pacific century -- Inland empire cities -- Garden cities -- Smokestack frontiers -- Money in the air -- Cities of homes -- Water, power, progress -- The metropolitan West since 1940 -- Wars and rumors of war -- Progress and prejudice -- The politics of diversity -- Reshaping the metropolis -- Transnational urbanism -- The long arm of the metropolitan West -- Conclusion: Urban frontiers.
Sommario/riassunto	The author traces the evolution of early frontier towns at the beginning of Western expansion to the thriving urban centers they have become today.

