Sommario/riassunto	This report, produced by the European Investment Bank (EIB), provides an in-depth analysis of the financial sector in Africa, focusing on investment opportunities in the context of digital transformation and climate transition. It examines trends in financial markets, banking, and economic development across sub-Saharan Africa, highlighting the role of digital financial services and climate finance in fostering sustainable growth. The report aims to identify gaps and opportunities in domestic and international financial flows, emphasizing the importance of partnerships and investment strategies to achieve the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by 2030. It is intended for policymakers, financial institutions, and development organizations seeking to understand and enhance Africa's economic resilience and growth potential.
