Sommario/riassunto

"This insightful book examines the public value aspects of Non-Western Public Administration (NWP) and establishes the presence of Islamic Public Administration in NWP. It investigates how Islamic institutions across state, local, and community levels collaborate to meet societal needs, foster inclusion, and enhance public value. Renowned experts propose faith-based perspectives to the field of public value and present diverse research into the relationship between religion and public administration. Chapters discuss Islamic indigenous governance institutions as functional examples of Islamic public administration and as existing alternatives to dominant global-Western models. They highlight historical cases of Islamic governance and administration that demonstrate practical approaches and solutions in contemporary society. The book's international case studies span Muslim-majority and -minority contexts based on ethnographic fieldwork and provide an empirical basis for the book's thought-provoking arguments. Islamic Public Value is a vital resource for students and academics in politics, public administration, regulation and governance and Islamic studies. Its exploration of non-Western governance models also makes it an essential guide for practitioners and policymakers in public management and policy"--
