Sommario/riassunto

This book offers a comprehensive analysis of the unprecedented situation following the later stages of the war in Ukraine in 2022. It explores the experiences of millions of Ukrainians who sought refuge in neighboring countries and examines the wide-ranging support they received. Focusing primarily on Poland, Czechia, Slovakia, and Moldova, the book highlights both the assistance provided by these nations and the personal stories of those who benefited from it. Based on qualitative research, including interviews and discourse analysis, and complemented by an examination of governmental documents and organizational initiatives, this work provides an in-depth account of the efforts made to support those displaced by the conflict. This book will be of interest to academics and practitioners within the NGO and government sectors actively researching Ukrainian refugees in countries that have chosen to host larger numbers of Ukrainians, particularly in Europe and North America. Magorzata Dziekoska is Assistant Professor of Sociology at the University of Bialystok, Poland. Her research focuses on migration studies, particularly return migration and re-adaptation processes, using qualitative methods. She has led several projects on Polish migration, with findings published in journals such as Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies and Global Networks. Kamil Luczaj is Assistant Professor of Sociology at the University of Łódź, Poland. His work spans migration studies and the sociology of higher education, with a focus on academic migrants. He has held visiting positions at institutions including the University of Cambridge, UK, and the University of Illinois, USA, and his research has appeared in Studies in Higher Education, Geoforum, and Higher Education Policy.
