

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9911049151103321
Autore	Hahnel Robin
Titolo	Climate Change Policy : The Eleventh Hour // by Robin Hahnel
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Cham : , : Springer Nature Switzerland : , : Imprint : Palgrave Macmillan, , 2025
ISBN	3-031-99060-9
Edizione	[1st ed. 2025.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (170 pages)
Collana	Economics and Finance Series
Disciplina	363.73874561
Soggetti	Economics Economic policy Environmental economics International economic relations Political Economy and Economic Systems Economic Policy Environmental Economics International Political Economy'
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Nota di contenuto	Introduction -- Chapter 1: Where Things Stand -- Chapter 2: What Must and Can Be Done -- Chapter 3: Where to Begin -- Chapter 4: Individual vs. Political Solutions -- Chapter 5: Technological Fixes -- Chapter 6: First California -- Chapter 7: Then Oregon -- Chapter 8: Then Washington State and Minnesota -- Chapter 9: The Northeast Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative -- Chapter 10: Red States Can Be Wind and Solar Power Houses Too -- Chapter 11: Portland Oregon Has a Terrific Climate Action Plan -- Chapter 12: Climate Action Plans in Other Cities -- Chapter 13: A National Green New Deal -- Chapter 14: International Climate Negotiations -- Conclusion: The Time is NOW!.
Sommario/riassunto	"Robin Hahnel's Climate Change Policy not only offers a compelling account of what needs to be done to address the climate crisis but also tells the encouraging story of what is already being done by states and cities around the country. Worth reading for anyone who wants to join the fight for our future." —James K. Boyce, University of Massachusetts Amherst "This book demands attention." —Tom Athanasiou, EcoEquity

“A comprehensive and important guide to the fix we're in—and the paths out!” —Bill McKibben, Middlebury College and author of Here Comes the Sun “An indispensable guide toward creating a livable future.” —Robert Pollin, University of Massachusetts Amherst

The threat of climate change increases with each passing moment, and it's time for economists, policymakers, and climate scientists to work together to address this. In this Palgrave Pivot, political economist Robin Hahnel offers useful ways to make a difference when it comes to climate policy. The book begins by making clear that not enough is being done to slow the impact of climate change. Hahnel breaks down what is being done in some states and cities in the US and provides expert insights into important national-level initiatives that began under the Biden–Harris Administration. Chapters explore international climate negotiations—the good, the bad, and the ugly—offering a realistic approach to policies that impact our environment. The book ends with a nod to action, optimism, and strength. Hahnel explains not just whether, but also why, there is still reason to push for international climate action before it is too late. Written for individuals working within and interested in policy, climate, and political economy, the book will inspire creative responses to climate change. Robin Hahnel is Professor Emeritus at the American University in Washington, DC.
