Nota di contenuto	Executive summary -- Introduction -- Cross-border migration and food remittances -- International migration and food remittances -- Food remitters in rural areas -- Case study one : food remitting in a state of crisis : Zimbabwe -- Case study two : reciprocal urban-rural remitting : Namibia -- Conclusions.
Sommario/riassunto	There is considerable evidence from across the African continent that a significant proportion of cash remittances to rural areas is spent on food. However, bidirectional food remitting -- its drivers, dimensions and impacts -- is an underdeveloped research and policy area. This report therefore reviews the current state of knowledge about food remittances in Africa and aims to make a number of contributions to the study of the relationship between migration and food security.
