Sommario/riassunto	"The GPPS Journal has been developed to serve the international power and propulsion community in the time of change. The Journal with its close link to the GPPS technical conference series has played and continues to play a uniquely important role. I very much appreciate the contributions made and the solid foundation laid by the founding editor (Prof. Howard Hodson), the associate editors and the editorial office team, and believe that with the help of all involved, including the reviewers and authors, the Journal can and will be progressed further, in terms of the quality and speed of the publications and in terms of the impact on academic and industrial communities of the society"-- About GPPS, viewed March 9, 2020.
