

1. Record Nr.	UNISA996383146103316
Titolo	Acts and statutes set downe by the Committee of Estates of Scotland; [[electronic resource]] : for regulating the matter of excise, and speedy bringing in of the moneyes to be raised thereupon: conforme to the power given to them by the Convention of Estates
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Edinburgh, : Printed Evan Tyler, Printer to the Kings most excellent Majestie, 1644
Descrizione fisica	[2], 9 p
Altri autori (Persone)	PrimroseArchibald, Sir, <1616-1679.>
Soggetti	Excise tax - Law and legislation - Scotland
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Headpiece; initial letter. With marginal notes. Dated on page 1: At Edinburgh the 15. of February 1644. Signed at end: Arch. Primerose. Reproduction of the original in the National Library of Scotland.
Sommario/riassunto	eebo-0097

2. Record Nr.	UNINA9910438259003321
Titolo	Transitional justice and civil society in the Balkans / / Olivera Simic, Zala Volcic, editors
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, : Springer, c2013
ISBN	1-283-91072-1 1-4614-5422-0
Edizione	[1st ed. 2013.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (250 p.)
Collana	Springer series in transitional justice
Altri autori (Persone)	SimicOlivera VolcicZala
Disciplina	320.01109496
Soggetti	Transitional justice - Balkan Peninsula Human rights - Balkan Peninsula
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes index.
Nota di contenuto	1. Localizing Transitional Justice: Civil Society Initiatives and Practices in the Balkans, Olivera Simi and Zala Voli.- PART I. Initiatives within the nation state -- 2. Civil Society and Post-Communist Transitional Justice in Romania, Lavinia Stan -- 3. Dealing with the past in post-war Croatia: perceptions, problems and prospects, Tamara Banjeglav -- 4. The failure of Macedonian post-communist transitional justice: lustration, between cleansing and parody, Despina Angelovska -- 5. Transitional and transnational justice in Bosnia-Herzegovina: analyzing civil society organizations discourses, Eunice Castro Seixas -- 6. The 'Transitional Citizen': Civil Society, Political Agency and Hopes for Transitional Justice in Bosnia-Herzegovina, Briony Jones, Alex Jeffrey and Michaelina Jakala -- 7. Failure of Transitional Justice in Albania: Too Much Politics, Too Little Debate, Arolda Elbasani, Artur Lipinski , Elidor Mehili -- 8. Truth and the Shadow of Justice, Jamie Rowen -- PART II. Transnational civil society practice -- 9. Structured Encounters in Post-Conflict/Post-Yugoslav Days: Visiting Belgrade and Prishtina, Orli Fridman -- 10. What About the Women? Transitional Justice and Gender in Bosnia and Herzegovina and Northern Ireland, Hedley Abernethy and Michael Potter -- 11. 'Pillar of Shame': Civil Society, UN accountability and Genocide in Srebrenica, Olivera Simi -- 12. Afraid To Cry Wolf: Human Rights Activists' Conundrum to Define Narratives of Justice and Truth in Collective Accountability Efforts, Arnaud Kurze and Iva Vukusi -- 13. From International Courts to Grassroots Organizing: Obstacles to Transitional Justice in the Balkans, Jill Irvine and Patrice McMahon.

Sommario/riassunto

Transitional Justice and Civil Society in the Balkans covers civil society engagements with transitional justice processes in the Balkans. The Balkans, whose physical geography is generally considered to be the former Yugoslavia, as well as Albania, Greece, Romania and Bulgaria, is a region marked by the post-communist and post-conflict transitional turmoil in which its countries are entangled. With contributions coming from localized and international scholars, this volume provide a comprehensive look at the research in transitional justice in this part of the world, Transitional justice is an ever-growing field which responds to dilemmas over how successor regimes should deal with past human rights abuses of their authoritarian predecessors. This volume explores the ways in which civil society—lay citizens who participate in government and non-government organization without seeking monetary compensation—affect and drive the transitional justice process. The editors and author emphasize the relatively unexplored and under-researched role of civil society groups and social movements, such as local women's groups, the role of art and community media and other grass-roots transitional justice mechanisms and initiatives, in the Balkans' movement towards making peace with the past. Through specific case-studies, the unique contribution of Transitional Justice and Civil Society in the Balkans is not only that it covers a part of the world that is not adequately represented in the transitional justice field, but also that it is one of the first projects originally researched and written by experts and scholars from the region or in collaboration with international scholars. By taking a more critical look at national strategies, local practices and priorities, and by closely examining international transitional justice agendas, the authors explore the complex and unpredictable justice processes currently underway in the Balkans. They suggest lessons to be learned from those engagements and identify future directions that may be taken in order to bring a sustainable peace to the region. With its effective combination of empirical studies and theoretical grounding, Transitional Justice and Civil Society in the Balkans serves as an excellent resources for scholars of peace studies, the Balkans, historians, peace psychology, transitional justice, political science, civil society, sociologists, criminologists, and anybody interested in the process by which nations and peoples heal themselves.
