

1. Record Nr.	UNISA996384421703316
Autore	Howe Obadiah <1615 or 16-1683.>
Titolo	The pagan preacher silenced. Or, an answer to a treatise of Mr. John Goodwin, entituled, the pagans debt & dowry [[electronic resource]] : Wherein is discovered the weaknesse of his arguments, and that it doth not yet appear by scripture, reason, or the testimony of the best of his own side, that the heathen who never heard of the letter of the Gospel, are either obliged to, or enabled for the believing in Christ; and that they are either engaged to matrimonial debt, or admitted to a matrimonial dowry. Wherein also is historically discovered, and polemically discussed the doctrin of Universal grace, with the original, growth and fall thereof; as it hath been held forth by the most rigid patrons of it. // By Obadiah Howe, A.M. and pastor of Horne-Castle in Lincolnshire. With a verdict on the case depending between Mr. Goodwin and Mr. Howe, by the learned George Kendal, DD
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London, : Printed by Th. Maxey, for John Rothwell, at the Fountian and Bear in Cheap-side., 1655
Descrizione fisica	[8], 11, [1], 120 p
Altri autori (Persone)	KendallGeorge <1610-1663.>
Soggetti	Conversion Christianity and other religions
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	A reply to: Goodwin, John. The pagans debt and dowry. The first numbered sequence of 11 pages contains: A verdict in the case depending between master J. Goodwin, and master Howe, concerning the Heavens preaching the Gospel; maintained by master Goodwin in his Pagans debt and dowry, as well as his Redemption redeemed. By George Kendall, D.D. Annotation on Thomason copy: "Aug. 16". Reproduction of the original in the British Library.
Sommario/riassunto	eebo-0018

