Titolo	The Nonconformists plea for the conformists, or, The Church of England and the dissenters reconciled [[electronic resource] ] : being from som arguments modestly offered, tending to peace and unitie : wherein is endeavoured to be proved, that it is not unlawful for those commonly called nonconformists to hear ministers of the Church of England, cleared by these 3 propositions, I. That it is no sin, II. That it is a duty, III. That it is a matter (at this juncture), of greatest expedience and on which the præservacion of the Protestant religion very much dependeth, as utterly defeating the designs of the Romanists, who would divide us, and set us one to ruin another for trifles, that they mai enslave us all to their intolerabl and detestabl abominations
