Note generali	Concerns the destruction of the French fleet in May 1692. James begs Louis XIV to "forbear to concern yourself for a prince so unfortunate as I am: and give me and my family leave to retire unto a corner of the world". Not actually by James II?. The text begins: "Brother King, I have with a degree of resolution bore all the disgraces it had pleased Heaven to send me,...". Includes "Remarks on the foregoing letter". Reproduction of original in the Newberry Library.
