

1. Record Nr.	UNISA996392198603316
Titolo	Digitus testium, or A dreadful alarm to the vvhole kingdom [[electronic resource] ] : especially the Lord Major, the aldermen, and the Common-Council of the City of London. Or a short discourse of the excellency of Englands lawes and religion. Together, with the antiquity of both, and the famous Kings that England hath had to defend both the religion and the laws against the heathen Romish emperours, and against the Romish power, under Popes. With the several plots the Popes of Rome have used against the Kings of England, to throwe them down, and how of late he hath prevailed against the magistracy and ministry of England, his new designes, and manner of progress: together, with a serious view of the new oath or ingagement, with 22. queries upon the same. And also objections made against the non-subscribers thereof answered. Let the ingenuous reader take so much pains, as to read that incomparable peece of vindication of a treatise of monarchy by way of discovery of three main points thereof
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London, : [s.n.], Printed in the year, MDCL [1650, i.e. 1651]
Descrizione fisica	[6], 31, [1] p
Soggetti	Monarchy - Great Britain Loyalty oaths - Great Britain - 17th century Great Britain Constitutional history Early works to 1800
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Wing attributes to Henry Hall; CtY, to Edmund Hall. Annotation on Thomason copy: "non" is inserted before "Common-Council"; "Jan: 12th." Reproduction of the original in the British Library.
Sommario/riassunto	eebo-0018