

1. Record Nr.	UNISA996392659603316
Titolo	Clavis ad aperiendum carceris ostia. Or, The high point of the writ of habeas corpus discussed [[electronic resource]] : And not onely the several branches of the said writ, but also the authorities of both common and statute-law (with divers ancient and obscure records) produced and cleared. Shewing the remedies against illegal and unjust imprisonment. (Fit for the perusal of every English-man.) It being the case of Mr. John Streater, in Michaelmas & Hilary-Terms last past, at the Upper-bench-bar: he being committed by vertue of an Order of the late Council of State, and an Order of Parliament of Nov. 21. 1653. Wherein are recited the arguments of the prisoner and his learned counsel, on the one part; and those of Mr. Attorney-General, on the other. With the opinion of the reverend judges upon the whole matter. Also, a narrative of Mr. John Lilburn's proceedings in Michaelmas Term, in order to the obtaining of an habeas corpus
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London, : Printed by James Cottrel; and are to be sold by him at his house of Addle-hilll [sic], and by Richard Moone, at the seven stars in Paul's Church-yard, neer the great north-door., 1654
Descrizione fisica	[16], 45, [3] p
Soggetti	Law - Great Britain - History Great Britain Constitutional history Sources Early works to 1800
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Annotation on Thomason copy: "March [the] 14." Reproduction of the original in the British Library.
Sommario/riassunto	eebo-0018