

1. Record Nr.	UNISA996392772203316
Autore	W. H
Titolo	A diurnall of sea designes, which is as strange as true [[electronic resource]] : Relating vvhat great preparations many mighty forraigne princes have now upon the ocean, no man knowing for what intent or purpose. Wherein it may be perceived that the case is pittifull when so many dangers are floating about our ears befor wee can heare of them. Written for a warning, that though feares and jealousies be necessarie; yet it is more necessary to lay them in their right places. Not unprinted betwixt Yorke and Beverley, by W. H
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London, : Printed for W. S., 1642
Descrizione fisica	[2], 6 p
Soggetti	Great Britain Politics and government 1625-1649 Humor Early works to 1800
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	A satiric imitation of a diurnall ridiculing the political conflicts of the time. Annotation on Thomason copy: "August 30th". Reproduction of the original in the British Library.
Sommario/riassunto	eebo-0018