

1. Record Nr.

UNISA996392772303316

Titolo

Loves overthrow; or, A full and true account of a young maid that lived in Exeter-Exchange-Court, in the Strand [[electronic resource]] : who being deeply in love with a young serving-man, whose care was so great, that he would not marry till he was in a good condition to maintain a wife; which resolution of his bred jealousie in her; whereupon in reality of his love, he presented her with a ring, but she afterwards [sic] dispairing of his constancy, distainfully returned him the ring again, and within ashort [sic] time after poysoned her self; and now she lies buried near the May-Pole in the Strand, with a stake drove through her body; being there bruied [sic] the thirteenth day of May last. To the tune of, Bateman

Pubbl/distr/stampa

[London], : Printed for P[hilip]. Brooksby, at the Golden Ball in West-smithfield., [between 1670-1696]

Descrizione fisica

1 sheet ([1] p.) : ill. (woodcuts)

Soggetti

Ballads, English - 17th century

Lingua di pubblicazione

Inglese

Formato

Materiale a stampa

Livello bibliografico

Monografia

Note generali

Verse: "All you that know what 'tis to love ..."
Date, place of publication and publisher's name from Wing.
Reproduction of original in the Harvard University, Houghton Library.

Sommario/riassunto

eebo-0067