

1. Record Nr.	UNISA996396836503316
Autore	Hubberthorn Richard <1628-1662.>
Titolo	The Quakers house built upon the rock Christ [[electronic resource]] : Wherein neither their doctrines, principles, nor practices can be confounded, not disproved; being neither damnable, nor pernicious. As Samuel Hammond hath falsly affirmed in his book called, The Quakers house built upon the sand: or, a discovery of the damnablenes of their pernitious doctrins, in his answer to G.W. which to prove, he lays down seven grounds of delusion, and five arguments of damnable doctrine. But in this answer his seven grounds is proved false in themselves, ...; and his five arguments is proved to be his own false positions, ... as first, he lays down false positions, and then proves them false; and then boasts, as if he had proved our doctrines or principles false: the truth of which is herein clearly made manifest, and wherein he falsly accuseth us, he is justly guilty himselfe. Also the ten fundamentall principles or doctrines of the hireling priest-hood, ... By a servant to the Church of Christ, ... Richard Hubberthorne. .
Pubbl/distr/stampa	[London?, : s.n., 1659]
Descrizione fisica	47, [1] p
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Imprint from Wing. In response to Hammond, Samuel. The Quakers house built upon the sand. Reproduction of the original in the Friends' House Library, London.
Sommario/riassunto	eebo-0080