| Sommario/riassunto | This accessible and engaging book explores the ways that ""space, place, and sex"" are inextricably linked from the micro to the macro level, from the individual body to the globe. Drawing on queer, feminist, gender, social, and cultural studies, Lynda Johnston and Robyn Longhurst highlight the complex nature of sex and sexuality and how they are connected to both virtual and physical spaces and places. Their aim is to enrich our understanding of sexual identities and practices-whether they be lesbian, gay, bisexual, transsexual, asexual, queer, or heterosexual. They show that bodies are not just sites of sex and sexuality, but also sites of power, control, and resistance. The book is divided into four parts: 'Geographies of the body', 'Geographies of the self', 'Geographies of the world', and 'Geographies of the future'. Each part contains a mix of theoretical essays and practical case studies, illustrating the diverse ways in which space and place shape sexual and gendered experiences. The book is an essential read for anyone interested in the complex interplay between geography, gender, and sexuality. |
